"IT'S A GREAT TRUCK, AND TRULY A BASHING BEAST."

You didn't hear that from us (even though we do agree with it). That's what the Big Squid Team had to say about the NERO BIG ROCK, and it's easy to see why. It's super-tough, with a composite chassis cage that can take all the mayhem you can dish out. It's ridiculously fast, thanks to a brushless power system. And the revolutionary Diff Brain lets you switch between four driving styles — on the fly!

1/25 FORD FD-100 PICKUP

Foose™ Ford!

The Foose™ Ford FD-100 has a history that spans three generations. Originally, this 1956 Ford F-100 was owned by Chip Foose's father, Sam. At age 13, Chip Foose bought the truck from his father and drove it daily throughout high school and college. Many years later Sam completely rebuilt and customized the truck using drawings done by Chip. Once Brock, Chip's son is able to drive, the family vehicle will have a brand new owner! Kit features independent front and coil over rear suspension, dual exhaust, and solid axles for stronger construction.

1/35 GERMAN STAFF CAR TYPE 82 KUBELWAGEN

Kubels for der Kampf.

The German Kübelwagen was the surprisingly capable staff car of choice for the Wehrmacht throughout much of WWII. Despite being only a two-wheel drive vehicle, it ably crossed terrain even its designers didn't believe was possible. The air-cooled flat 4-cylinder engine took the Type 82 and the soldiers that drove it from downtown Paris to the doorstep of Moscow.

1/48 H-19 RESCUE HELICOPTER

Tenacious transport

H-19 helicopters were the workhorses of multiple US military branches throughout the 1950s. They also made their mark on global aviation, serving in well over a dozen countries. It served in combat, transport, and rescue service roles for the military and had a significant second life in civilian aviation, as well. H-19s can carry up to eight stretchers when used as rescue transports. Their range of 470 miles made them perfect for picking up injured or downed pilots during the Korean War. Kit features display stand, two seated crew and two rescue figures, plus separate engine doors and engine detail.

1/72 LEOPARD 1A5/BRIDGELAYER BIBER

Your literal bridge over troubled waters

Rivers don't care about wars. They don't care if the bridge has been knocked down by bombs. They're just rivers. Cross them the wrong way and they'll sweep you off the field. Bridge laying apparatus like the Biber, based on a modified Leopard chassis, restore mobility to armies when civilian infrastructure is damaged or non-existent. The German army uses them in concert with the Leopard 1A5—a superior mainline battle tank—to ensure the tanks can stay mobile. Kit combo features rotating turret, injection molded tracks with individual links and authentic decal sets.

1/16 SWISS GUARD

A history of halberds

For over five hundred years, the Swiss Guard has defended the Vatican and the Pope. Their service has outlived wars, reformations, intrigues, assassinations, and even the virtual extermination of the entire guard. Today, the unit is composed of Swiss citizens who have completed basic training with the Swiss Army and have fulfilled the strict requirements of the Papal Guard. The halberds and uniforms are for show. The fully stocked modern armory and unarmed combat training of the individual guards is very functional. Kit features detailed dress uniform, display stand, highly detailed facial features, halberd, and Beretta

1/32 SUPERMARINE SPITFIRE MK.IXC

Stunning strafer

Spitfire fighters helped to break German air supremacy one dogfight at a time. By late in 1944, however, they were beginning to run out of German aircraft to fight. Many were pressed into a ground attack role. There, they helped wreck German supply lines and hit strategic targets. Kit features detailed Mk.Ixc wings with guns, detailed cockpit and instrument panel, detailed radiator, rotating 4-blade propeller, optional bomb load, detailed undercarriage, and decals for a Royal Canadian Air Force and a Royal Air Force version.

1/16 REPUBLICAN GUARD

Always imitated, never outdone

Sixteen countries have or historically have had a "Republican Guard", but France fields the first and finest Republican Guard of them all. This nearly 3,000 member team provides ceremonial displays as well as more mundane tasks like counter-sniper teams, SWAT teams, an entire regiment of cavalry, plus bands, and a motorcycle display team. If you crossed the Cirque Du Soleil with the US Navy SEALs, you'd get the French Republican Guard. Kit features display stand, highly detailed facial features, sword, and authentic decal set.

1/48 FOCKE WULF FW 190 D-9

Denying the skies to enemy aircraft

By late 1944, the war, for Germany, was effectively over. Nevertheless, Luftwaffe units continued to fight. German industry continued to pump out new and different types of planes. As the world hung in the balance, the D-9 variant of the Fw 190 took to the skies. It was faster, could fly higher, and was capable of carrying more bombs than the A variants. Despite all its advantages, it was much too late to turn the tide. Kit features detailed machine gun position, separate ailerons, rotating propeller, detailed cockpit and undercarriage plus decals for two versions.

1/72 DORNIER DO 17Z-10 Hunting

Twin engine Do 17 fast bombers were intended to outrun anything the Allies could put in the air and still drop their bombs on target. Z-10 variants, by contrast, were fitted with infrared searchlights and more guns for use on night missions. The guns and search equipment gave the Dorniers a chance against heavy bombers flying at night. Kit features detailed cockpit and instrument panel, detailed radial engines, rotating propellers, and authentic decal sets.

1/72 VAMPIRE F MK3 Post-war power

Developed during WWII, the de Havilland Vampire was one of the first jet-powered aircraft to enter service with the RAF. Acclaimed as one of the fastest and most reliable jet engine aircraft of the era, the de Havilland Vampire was used by dozens of countries and in service well into the seventies. Kit features twin boom fuselage, detailed under carriage, 2 auxiliary fuel tanks, cockpit with instrument panel, and decals for two versions.

1/48 JUNKERS JU 88 A-4 Improved for invasion

It's not going to be like last time. The wings are longer. There's more guns and better ones. Even the engines are more powerful. Sure, the A-1 came in hard and the undercarriage crumpled like tinfoil, but this is an A-4. Sure. The ache from the pilot's recently mended leg comes back as he watches the ground crews load extra bombs in the new external racks. A polite cough from the copilot brings him back to the pre-flight checklist. It'll all be fine. Sure. Kit features rotating propeller, detailed cockpit, two detailed engines, detailed machine guns, and decals.

1/144 EMBRAER 190 LUFTHANSA Flights to the sights

Short-haul aircraft like the ERJ 190 make jet setting off to scenic locales less of a dream and more of a reality for thousands of people around the world every day. Embraer, the manufacturer, is based out of Brazil and this particular model of their sleek, twin-engine aircraft seats one hundred passengers. Lufthansa is one of the largest airlines in the world with hundreds of aircraft and destinations around the globe. Kit features replica cockpit, detailed undercarriage, and full Lufthansa decals.

1/100 BELL AH-1G COBRA Devastating the jungle

The landscape speeds by below, thousands of acres of jungle, river, rice paddies, huge hills, small villages, and, somewhere ahead, the objective. The job is clear. Support the landing zone with rockets, gatling gun fire, and 40mm grenades. What's not clear is how the gunner is supposed to see anything to hit with all the cover everywhere. Tracer fire arcs up from beneath the canopy. Here we go again. Kit features rotating main rotor, missile pods, minigun, and authentic decal sets.

1/100 SH-60 NAVY HELICOPTER Hug the waves

These aircraft have been tried and tested in virtually every theater of US conflict since the mid-nineties. SH-60 Seahawks are modified versions of the UH-60 Blackhawk designed for use aboard US Navy vessels. Their main modification is a foldable tail that allows more to be stored aboard ships. Throughout their versions, they accomplish an astounding array of missions for the Navy. These include anti-submarine warfare, anti-surface warfare, search and rescue, cargo transport, reconnaissance, and more. Kit includes rotating main rotor, two torpedoes, and decals.

1/300 GERMAN FRIGATE CLASS F122 Backbone of the German Navy

F122 Bremen Class Frigates were the pride of the German Navy for three decades. All eight vessels served as convoy escorts during the trying days of the Cold War. Their chief role is hunting subs, but they have extensive anti-air and anti-surface capabilities, as well. Currently, five of the eight Bremen Class vessels have been replaced by the upcoming F125 class but the remaining three continue to participate in anti-piracy missions and in anti-terrorism operations. Kit features two piece hull, missiles, 76mm gun, helicopter, and decals for all eight F122 class vessels.

1/720 HMS ARK ROYAL AND TRIBAL CLASS DESTROYER Hunter of the Bismarck

Ark Royal was one of the first aircraft carriers to be built with flight deck and hangar bays incorporated in the hull structure of the ship. She was the linchpin of several crucial actions in the early days of WWII, plus, she was a spectacularly lucky ship. Obsolete Swordfish torpedo bombers from Ark Royal enabled the Royal Navy to sink the German Battleship Bismarck. In 1941, Ark Royal was struck by a torpedo off Gibraltar and sank. Fortunately, all but one of her over 1,000 crewmen made it to safety. Kit features Ark Royal and a Tribal Class Destroyer with stands.

1/25 '58 CORVETTE ROADSTER

Fleet fifty-eight

Fast cars, no tops, high octane, and an open road: it just didn't get any better in the fifties. The war was over, the good times were back, and returning GIs were more than eager for something to blow their hair back. 1958 Corvette Roadsters were the perfect mixture of power and thrill. They set a new trend in automotive design, making everything else on the road look old and outdated. Plus, they helped establish a legacy of excellence for Corvette that has carried through to today.

1/32 VW BUGGY

Bump down to the beach!

With the radio on, the ocean breeze blowing in through the open top, and the tires sliding loose over the warm sand, Monday is a millennia away. Building a dune buggy on this old VW chassis was the best decision ever. Now, every day is a sun day. Kit features easy to build construction kit of a 1960s buggy with rotating wheels and various registration plates.

1/72 CHURCHILL MK.I/II & DAIMLER MK.II

"DIEPPE RAID" (TWO KITS)

Barely on the beach

Waves pull the oil back out over the surface of the Atlantic. Steam hisses from red hot fenders. Black smoke curls from burning wrecks, driving the gulls back from the quiet port of Dieppe. From tideline to uncrossable sea wall, crumpled forms lay where they fell. 100, 200, 1,000... who can say? Like maple leaves in autumn, the Canadians are strewn across the shingle beach. Grey uniforms lead the shackled, shattered, khaki-clad remnant towards the rear. Kit features a Churchill and Daimler armored car specially modified and with decals for the Dieppe Raid.

1/24 SUBARU IMPREZA WRX 1993 RAC RALLY

Impressive Impreza

It may not look like much, but the Subaru Impreza has been driven to several key rally victories including the Wales Rally GB. Colin McRae took it to three impressive victories in that rally. Ari Vatanen has achieved one so far. This challenging rally features sections in forests and in front of grandstands on sweeping estates. The incredibly varied driving conditions present an almost unique test to drivers and vehicles alike. This limited edition kit features decals for 1993 RAC (Wales Rally GB) Rally drivers Colin McRae and Ari Vatanen.

All Japan auto

Porsche has created countless competitors over the years. However, the 962C remains one of the brand's best designs over thirty years after its original release. The 962C competed in 1989's All Japan Sports Prototype Car Endurance Championship, where it took on Fuji Speedway's ten taut turns and impressive 0.9 mile (1.5 km) long straights. This limited edition kit features one set of decals for Nisseki Trust Racing Team Car number 100.

1/72 MESSERSCHMITT ME262V056 & ME262B-1A/U1 "NACHTJAGER"

Kurt's crafts

Me262s were some of the first and fastest early jet aircraft. Germany fielded increasing numbers of them, late in the war, with large radar arrays on the nose and heavy weapons for taking down the bombers wreaking havoc on the Rhineland. Kurt Welter was one of the most successful pilots of the Me262 at night, with 56 victories recorded at night. This limited edition kit combo features two aircraft with four sets of decals including two Kurt Welter decals.

Straight over the sea

The Mitsubishi F-2B may not be the most famous fighter around, but it is certainly one of the most impressive. The F-2 has the distinction of being the first military aircraft equipped with Active Electronically Scanned Array (AESA) radar. Its wing area is also 25 percent larger than other fighters in its class. These advantages make the F-2 a key element of the JASDF units based at Tsuiki Air Base. Decades of domination

For nearly sixty years, the Phantom II has served with the United States Air Force and the air forces of countries all across the globe. It set multiple world records in its tenure, is the only aircraft to serve with both the USAF and USN aerobatic display teams, and was operational in combat zones from Vietnam to Desert Storm. As of 2017, that long and storied service is coming to a close. This limited edition kit features decals for the final flight of the Phantom.

1/72 B-24 LIBERATOR MK.III/V COASTAL COMMAND

Closing the gap

It's a long, long way from New York to Liverpool. In WWII, that open expanse of ocean was a death trap. Nazi U-Boats prowled just beneath the surface from coast to coast, sinking vessels by the ton. RAF Coastal Command was given the nearly impossible task of regaining control over the huge "Atlantic Gap". Some of the best aircraft for this mission were the B-24 Liberators. These bombers, with their immense range and payload, enabled Coastal Command to extend protection for convoys far out into the Atlantic. Limited edition kit features two sets of decals.

1/72 AREA-88 F-20 TIGER SHARK SHIN KAZAMA

Shintani's shark!

Kaoru Shintani's action-packed manga, Area-88, debuted in 1979. It was an instant hit, exciting readers with the exploits of Shin Kazama, a mercenary fighter pilot stationed at a top-secret air base called Area-88. Tiger Sharks are absolutely perfect for the intense action Shin Kazama gets into. The series, which was praised for its white-knuckle dogfighting action, inspired multiple animated films and a television series. The Egg Plane Girls really know their transportation! The Kübelwagen is an all-terrain icon made infamous by the Germans during WWII. It followed German advances through Poland, France, North Africa, and into Russia. It followed the withdrawals, too. Its reliability was greater than that of virtually every other vehicle available to the Wehrmacht. By war's end, over 50,000 had been produced and many destroyed.

4TH REGIMENT
Fly for the 4th

Nakajima Ki-27 fighters were exceptionally nimble, able to make tight turns and perform aerobatics other aircraft simply couldn't. Unfortunately for their pilots, they also completely lacked armor and safety features. Nevertheless, they were a dangerous opponent in both the Sino-Japanese war and Japan's pre-WWII conflict with Russia. By the end of WWII, with the situation rapidly deteriorating, Japan committed its remaining Ki27s in suicide and suicidal attacks. Designed by Alexander Martin Lippisch in the early 1940s, the ME-163 Komet remains the only rocket-powered aircraft to ever become fully operational. During a 1944 flight, test pilot Rudy Opitz reached an astonishing 698 mph. However, the aircraft's brief seven-and-a-half minute flight times made it an ineffective fighter. An estimated 370 Komets were produced before WWII's end in 1945. This limited edition kit features new resin parts plus two sets of decals.

1/48 F-4E PHANTOM II Sixties standout

At its introduction, the Phantom II was a revolution in aviation design. It captured sixteen world records for flight performance, but its practical application on the battlefield was unquestioned as well. Leading off its list of combat features was an 18,000 lb effective weapons load – more than the four-engine B-17 of WWII. What the Phantom lacked in maneuverability, it made up for in sheer speed – breaking Mach 2 with ease. Kit features four sets of international decals.

1/35 STAGHOUND MK.1 ARMORED CAR American made, British driven

Though it was manufactured in the US, the Staghound never saw service with the US Army. Instead, it was sent to the British, originally for use in North Africa, but, after the end of Operation Torch, in Italy. As armored cars go, it was incredibly heavily armed and armored. Its 9-44mm of armor and 37mm gun made it virtually a match for the early Panzer III prototype tanks Germany fielded in Poland. Kit features British, Belgian, Australian, Polish, and Italian decals plus photo etched parts and a metal gun barrel.

Put a casemate mounted 150mm gun on top of a Panzer IV chassis and you get the Sturmpanzer IV. Germany only made around 300 of these vehicles, but they were brutally effective wherever they went. Their first engagement was at the Battle of Kursk – a bitter and costly defeat against thoroughly dug in Russian forces. As the situation deteriorated, Brumbär assault guns were rushed to hot spot after hot spot including Anzio, Warsaw, and the Battle of the Bulge. Kit features decals for multiple WWII versions.

Bandai® 1/144 Slave I Star Wars Hunting in the stars

Boba Fett is one of the baddest of the bad. His larger than life reputation is unparalleled for a character with so little actual screen time. His ship, Slave I, is virtually as iconic as the X-Wing. This vessel is a modified patrol craft that's feared across the galaxy. Even Han Solo takes a ride in it on his way, frozen in carbonite, to Jabba's palace.

Bandai 1/144 Millennium Falcon Star Wars The Force Awakens Back home

By the time of "The Force Awakens", the Millennium Falcon has really seen better days. It'll still make the Kessel Run, but it takes a few more parsecs. Nevertheless, the Falcon (as piloted by Rey, Finn, and the, not quite legitimate but, longest standing owners, Han and Chewie) is a force to be reckoned with. With it, the heroes manage, once again, to stave off the minions of the Dark Side. Kit features display base, rear engine effect part, 1/144 scale Finn, Rey, Han Solo, and Chewbacca, clear and frame canopies, open or closed hatches, landing gear, and full decals.

Bandai 1/100 Bael Gundam IBO Full Mechanics

Cleared for combat

According to Gundam Iron Blooded Orphans canon, Bael was built over 300 years prior to the events of the second season in the midst of the "Calamity War". There, it helped save humanity from destruction with flashing twin swords. Today, it's piloted by McGillis Fareed in service to Gjallarhorn. Even after 300 years in storage in the Gjallarhorn vaults, Bael is a deadly threat to any who oppose it! Kit features two blades, open hands, clenched hands, dedicated hands, foil sticker, and full instructions.

Bandai 1/48 AT-ST Star Wars

Ended by Ewoks on Endor

The AT-ST is the second iconic Imperial walker of the Star Wars franchise. It's heavily equipped with armament, but its armor is famously vulnerable to everything... including sticks and stones. It's also vulnerable to tripping via vine rope. All in all, it really explains why Imperial forces prefer to blow up planets rather than fighting on their surface. Nevertheless, the AT-ST fills several key roles at critical points in the original trilogy. Kit features detailed, articulated legs, rotating head, weapon systems, pilot figures, movable view ports, opening hatch, themed display base, laser effect parts, and full instructions.
