

PRESS RELEASE

Just-launched web site provides the latest Proto-X information and news!

The nano-sized Proto-X radio-control quadcopter has taken the world by storm, winning prestigious international awards and rave reviews from new and experienced fliers alike. The quality of technology and performance it offers has no equal at such a low price. No wonder this tiny quad has attracted such a large following that it now has its own web site: protoquad.com!

Everything a newcomer wants to know about the Proto-X before buying it has been placed on protoquad.com. Feature descriptions, videos and reviews explain how easily anyone can succeed. Ready to get one? Then use the handy dealer locator to find the nearest store. Pilots will want to add Protoquad.com to their favorites — it's packed with useful information, including manuals, parts lists and more.

Protoquad.com will also be the online showroom for upcoming additions to the Proto-X quadcopter series, and for exciting accessory products that many pilots have been requesting. Whenever there's big news in nano quads, it can be found on protoquad.com!

The community of Proto-X pilots is growing by leaps and bounds. Protoquad.com gives them all a single place to share their videos and to find unique merchandise that shows they're part of the Proto-X "club". The fun only begins with the first successful Proto-X flight...there's an unlimited number of thrilling adventures to come.

Protoquad.com is live now. Proto-X products are available at hobby retailers everywhere.
