

King's Ransom

Pirate Ship

Ready-to-Run R/C Pirate Ship

Ready to pillage the high seas — right now!

Whether on display or on the lookout for other vessels to plunder, the King's Ransom Pirate Ship tells everyone you're all about adventure! The incredible amount of detail on this boat has to be seen up close to believe it, from the jib sail on the bowsprit up front to the skull and crossbones flying from the ship's aft. And just as impressive as its looks is the King's Ransom's graceful sailing ability — it's as ready to run on the water as it is ready to turn heads on your mantle!

-  The fiberglass hull is completely finished and already painted.
-  A 2-channel radio is included and installed, as is a 550-sized motor.
-  You're only 15 minutes of final assembly away from having an elegant ship worthy of static display — OR ready for radio control action!

Smooth, precise control from the quality AquaCraft 2-channel radio — included and installed!

You won't believe the amount of display-quality detail! See other side

Polycarbonate strips inserted into sleeves give the sails a "wind-filled" appearance for static display; remove the strips and the sails roll up and secure easily for taking out on the water.

4 pirate figures, all painted and highly detailed, add even more realism.

Doors to the captain's quarters flank the steps with railings that lead up to the top deck.

The gun deck boasts twelve cannons, six on each side. On the starboard side of the main deck is a retractable walkplank.

A crow's nest sits beneath a skull and crossbones flag atop the main mast.

Up front a jib sail is attached to the bowsprit.

3D window frames and outer trim along the transom is already molded in.

The rope netting on all three masts is hand-tied, and already rigged with unique cleats that easily secure them to the hull.

...while also equipped for exciting and immediate R/C sailing fun.

A 3-pound running keel is included for sailing the King's Ransom on the water, and attaches easily with thumbscrews.

Underneath the center hatch is a roomy compartment for holding the 550 motor and all on-board electronics.

At 42" tall and over 40" in length, the King's Ransom is an impressive display model — and will dominate on the water as well!

From the wood planking to the lifeboat, the deck detail on the King's Ransom is incredibly realistic.
