The high-capacity shocks are assembled and oil-filled. Soft springs improve handling on rugged terrain.

The axles and driveshafts are made from hardened steel, to maximize strength and dependability.

The rear pin spike and ribbed front tires are mounted and glued for ease — and equal to the roughest terrain.

The low-CG chassis is race-inspired, with countersunk screws and a centerline channel that turns battery weight into a handling plus.

Camber and toe-in are adjustable. Shock towers offer multiple mounting options on the top and bottom.
